

KIRBY D. WALKER
Real Estate
 Continental, Inc.

KELLY WALLER
Manager, Northwest Division
 General Insurance Company of America

FOREST WESLEY WALLS
Associate Professor of Science
 Seattle Pacific College

JAMES R. WARRACK
President
 J. B. Warrack Company

LEWIS GOULD WATTS
Executive Secretary
 Seattle Urban League

ROBERT B. WHITEBROOK
Member of Firm
 Blyth & Company

AVERY W. WILLIS, JR.
Assistant Director of Personnel
 Seattle Gas Company

To these one hundred, and to all of the other exceptional young men throughout Seattle who received nominations but whose names, for lack of space, cannot be included here, we offer . . .

Congratulations . . . and Best Wishes for their future and Sea

Committee For Seattle's Future . . .

KENNETH B. COLMAN, Chairman • FREDERICK E. BAKER • RICHARD E. FULLER • GLENN HUGHES • ROYAL BROUGHAM
 PHIL A. STRACK • RT. REV. STEPHEN F. BAYNE • RABBI RAPHAEL H. LEVINE • CLARENCE S. "Hec" EDMUNDSON
 GORDON SCOTT • NAT S. ROGERS • FRANK DUPAR, SR. • HENRY SCHMITZ • VERY REV. ALBERT A. LEMIEUX
 THOMAS J. BANNAN • WILLIAM M. ALLEN • D. K. MACDONALD • HARRY CARR • NORTON CLAPP • HERBERT E.
 COE, M. D. • C. B. LINDEMAN • FRANK McLAUGHLIN • WILLIAM S. STREET • CLARENCE CARLANDER • BEN B.
 EHRlichman • R. C. "Torchy" TORRANCE • CLINTON H. HARTSON

are the 100 young men selected to represent Newsmakers of Tomorrow

The hundred young Newsmakers whose pictures you see here were selected by the Committee for Seattle's Future as representative of the many other hundreds of outstanding young men of this city . . . young men of vision and vitality who received your nominations because they have already shown unique qualities of leadership or promise of future achievement.

They come from many different backgrounds, are following many different careers, but almost surely each of them will contribute in a major way to the development of Seattle as a better place in which to live and work.

Where are they?

The doctors and dentists...

Medicine and dentistry were well represented in the list of 1953 Newsmakers, as were those operating in religious and educational fields.

In fact there was then, and it so remains now, a bit of overlapping here and there.

MOVING INTO THE medical-surgical field, in alphabetical order, we begin with Dr. Alexander Bill, Jr., listed succinctly in 1953 as "children's surgeon." This he remains essentially today, but with considerably expanded responsibilities.

Dr. Bill is chief of surgical services and research at Children's Orthopedic Hospital. He also has moved into the cancer field and received important research grants in 1965 and 1972 from the American Cancer Society.

As a Newsmaker, Dr. Thomas Carlile was listed as a radiologist with the Mason Clinic. Like Dr. Bill, he can still be so listed today, but with the addition of considerable progress and honors in the interim.

Dr. Carlile is a past president of the American Cancer Society, a past president of the Pacific Science Center and a trustee of the Virginia Mason Research Center.

In Dr. Clement A. Finch, the physician and the educator merge. In 1953, he was an associate professor of medicine at the U. W. He still is at the university, as a hematologist and a professor of medicine, head of the hematology department. He also is a fellow of the American College of Physicians.

Dr. Alton W. Moore, an orthodontist, was at the university in 1953 and has clung happily to a teaching role ever since. He now is associate dean of the School of Dentistry and professor of orthodontics.

Dr. John M. Deines has stuck solidly to dentistry and is so favorably known in his profession that he has been president of the American Dental Association.

IN THE FIELD OF religion, those mentioned in the 1953 have "kept the faith," although in somewhat different roles.

The Rev. Cornelius Power was chancellor of the Archdiocese of Seattle in 1953. He now is properly and respectfully addressed as bishop of Yakima.

As a younger man, the Rev. John C. Soltman was minister of the Haller Lake Methodist Church. He now lives in Vancouver, Wash., and serves as director of the Southwest Washington Alcoholism Recovery Foundation, an agency sponsored by his church.

The Rev. John J. Kelly, S. J., was Seattle University's director of public relations in 1953. He now is in Washington, D. C., as executive secretary of Jesuit Missions, an agency which coordinates missionary work of American Catholics of home and abroad.

Michael A. Robinson was a young assistant rabbi at Temple de Hirsch. He now is Rabbi Michael A. Robinson of Temple Israel in Northern Westchester, Croton - on - Hudson, N. Y.

PERHAPS THE MOST widely known in the education field is Frank S. Hanawalt who was rightfully tabbed in 1953 as a Newsmaker when he was boys' adviser at Cleveland High School. He became widely known in the 1959-1968 period when he was principal of Garfield High School.

The next year Hanawalt moved to Franklin High as principal. After a leave of absence, during which he took advantage of a fellowship from the Visiting Scholar Program at Hamlin University, St. Paul, he returned to Franklin.

In 1953, Maynard Miller was listed simply as "geologist." Now his biography, in part, reads — director of the Arctic - Glaciological Sciences Institute, Alaska; member of the American Mount Everest expedition; professor of geology, Michigan State University. He also has been a director of the Foundation for Glacier and Environmental Research in Seattle.

As a prospective newsmaker, Forest W. Walls was an associate professor of science at Seattle Pacific College. In the 1967-69 period he was dean of academic affairs at Spring Arbor College in Michigan.

In 1970 Walls was back at S. P. C. as dean of liberal studies. In 1972 he resigned that position for reasons of health and now is chairman of the political - science department.

...the 'color guys'

Of "color guys" in the roster of 1953 Newsmakers there were few.

But surely at the head of any such category would be Jack Gordon who now hides his ebullience between a dignified facade as "John F. Gordon, executive secretary of the Restaurant Association of Washington."

Gordon in 1953 was a partner in the public relations firm of Williams & Gordon. He was widely known around town before that year as the official greeter of all troopships and Army personnel returning home from Korea through the Seattle Port of Embarkation.

He also was the chief drummer, trumpeter, in fact the whole band, in making the welkin ring for his favorite school—Seattle University. Ah, those were the days.

OTHERS BESIDES Gordon were or still are in the advertising and public-relations field.

Irving Stimpson in 1953 was a partner in the Frederick E. Baker & Associates agency. Now he is president of Stimpson, King, Thomas & Capeloto, a company of widespread advertising and public-relations activities.

Stimpson also has managed to sandwich in many efforts of a volunteer civic nature. He also has been an officer of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce and is chairman of the Environmental Research Council.

Another from the field of advertising is Philip M. Evans who has left Seattle to become a regional director of the Institute of International Education, with offices in San Francisco. In 1953, he was director of the Seattle World Affairs Council.

Evans' activities not directly concerned with advertising and public relations included service as federal commissioner for the Seattle World's Fair and president of the Seattle Citizens Planning Council.

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington still more in microbiology. Chinese.—Staff photo

Mr. Anonymous credit

By SH

Senator Henry M. Jackson do not relate to the foreign agent associated with in 20 years.

Instead they are from have needed a helping hand care, or college tuition.

But the letters of that Jackson." They begin:

"Dear Mr. Anonymous: Until the Federal government required the disclosure of beginning in April, 1972, scholarship fund.

In Everett, only a b Anonymous." Even Stan agent who peddled new school, did not know until Mitchell, an Everett and immediate past boss given $31,000 in scholarship two high schools. Without not have been able to enter Youngsters at Ever and the attorneys